

The Breath of Life - Group Piece for Chiccy Baritone
March of Dimes Event 9/10/08

Premature but no mistake
It took the same amount of power for God to create
This tiny being of flesh and blood with
No less ability than their incubator mate
She will be fine, He will make it
She is divine, His body can take it
The tubes and the test
The faint heart and the shortness of breath
Just rest my love while I speak life into you
One touch from God, one kiss from angels, one smile from your family
One picture for the world to see, what a miracle looks like before and after prophesy
Everybody that makes it out of the womb with or without complications
Don't owe the world no explanations...
And the definition of normalcy is up for debate
I say you are special in every single way
Predestine before the foundations of this world to carry on your life assignment
In your own premature way
I call you bless because you have been through a mess
Fighting with unforeseen bodily forces inside while mommy fought outside
Doing everything she knew how to do
But through it all love brought you through
I speak Life into you
So Breath

© Charlene Evans 2008